COPTIC HEARD VERY SAD NEWS

OFFICERS OF VESSEL HEARD OF
DEATH OF MASTER ON ARRIVAL
OFF PORT THIS MORNING.

The S. S. Coptic arrived this morning from the Orient en route to San Francisco. The news of the death of Captain Armstrong, the master of the vessel, was not learned by the officers of the ship until Captain Macaulay, the pilot, boarded the vessel this morning. Nobody aboard the vessel had any idea that the captain had been in any especial danger when he left the vessel in Yokohama on October 25, a day before the Coptic sailed from Yokohama. He was ill at that time but it was not thought that his sickness would prove fatal. Dr. Henry D. Hawhurst, the Coptic's physician, diagnosed the sickness of Captain Armstrong correctly and had it not been for the demand of Dr. Hawhurst that Captain Armstrong leave the vessel, the master would undoubtedly have died during the voyage from Yokohama to this port.

Captain Armstrong had been feeling badly for the past two trips. Two days after the Coptic left Honolulu on the outward trip, he complained of feeling badly and his condition showed no improvement during the voyage. At Hong Kong his blood was analyzed and the germ of malaria was found. It was not until Shanghai was reached that the seriousness of his condition became apparent. Captain Armstrong went out of his head as the result of his illness and Dr. Hawhurst realized that the condition of the master was more serious than the examination of the blood at Hong Kong indicated.

Dr. Boyd the head of the marine hospital service at Nagasaki and Dr. Kilpatrick a private practitioner at Kobe, were called into consultation during the voyage and they both, agreed with Dr. Hawhurst in pronouncing the case to be one of low typhoid-malaria.

At Yokohama, Dr. Hawhurst told Captain Armstrong that he would have to leave the vessel and go to the hospital. Captain Armstrong agreed to do so and on October 25, left the Coptic and went to the hospital. The Coptic sailed from Yokohama on the following day and it was not until the vessel arrived off the port this morning that the news of the death of Captain Armstrong was known. The news came in a cablegram to H. Hackfeld and Company the local agents of the company asking that the Coptic people be informed that Captain Armstrong had died on November 2, of typhoid fever. The news of the death of Captain Armstrong caused much sorrow among the officers and crew. The vessel came into the harbor with all of her flags at half mast.

The Coptic brought a big cargo for Honolulu there being 1,032 tons to be put out at this place. She experienced good weather during the trip, nothing of special interest occurring. She docked at the upper end of the Railway wharf.

W. M. Graham returned from a business trip to the Orient.

W. C. Weedon who has secured some concessions in China, returned from a trip to the Orient.

J. Rosenberg, wife, child and mother-in-law Mrs. F. Jacobsen, returned from a vacation trip to the Orient.

Otis A. Poole is a tea buyer who makes an annual tour of the Orient.

The Coptic will sail at 9 a. m. tomorrow for San Francisco.

ALAMEDA MET BAD WEATHER

ARRIVED FROM MAINLAND WITH MANY PASSENGERS—BROUGHT 164 BAGS OF MAIL.

The S. S. Alameda arrived this morning at 8:30 o'clock from San Francisco after a very disagreeable trip. She encountered a rough sea for the first four days after leaving the Coast. The vessel had a good sized crowd of passengers for this place. She brought 1750 tons of freight, the largest cargo she has brought in months. The vessel brought one automobile. The Alameda left San Francisco October 29 and brought four days' later mail, represented by 164 sacks.

On November 1 in Lat. 39:06, Long. 148:10 the S. S. Argyle going northeast was sighted. On October 29, in Lat. 37:07, Long. 124:35 a steamer was sighted steering northeast, and on the same day a four-masted schooner and a full rigged ship also steering northeast were passed. The S. S. Sierra which arrived last Monday at San Francisco was sighted and the Manchuria was passed last night.

Among the passengers is Miss Pearl Beiser, sister of Jack Beiser, the contractor, who arrived for a visit.

H. G. Dillingham, son of B. F. Dillingham, was an arriving passenger.

H. A. Giles of E. O. Hall & Son arrived.

Captain and Mrs. Berger of the Hawaiian Band returned from a vacation trip.

F. A. Schaefer, the Italian consul, returned from a business trip to the mainland.

Major and Mrs. W. A. Purdy, nee Anita Crystal, were arriving passengers.

L. B. Kerr returned from a business trip.

J. Sutherland Ross, the passenger agent of the steamship company, arrived on his regular trip.

Dr. A. G. Hodges and wife returned. He went up as the steamer physician.

Dr. W. C. Riley is making the trip in the vessel now as surgeon.

The Alameda will sail for San Francisco at 9 a. m. next Wednesday.

SAW YASHIMA

Nishin and Kasuga, seven protected cruisers; the cruisers Chitose, Takasago, Matsushima, Suma, Itsukushima, and Nittaka, and several smaller vessels.

The morning cable today was as follows:

PARIS, November 4.—It is officially confirmed that the Japanese battleship Yashima was sunk off the port of Dalny in June. She struck a mine.

Japan has hitherto concealed the news. The Yashima was built in England, her keel being laid in 1896. She was an improvement on the Royal Sovereign class of battleships and had a rating of 12,500 tons and a complement of 600 men. Her length over all was 412 feet.

She had an 18-inch belt of Harveyized steel armor and was armed with four 12-inch guns, ten 6-inch, sixteen 3-inch, four two and one-half pounders and five torpedo tubes, four submerged. She had two screws and a speed of about 16 knots. The Fuji, a sister vessel, is the flagship of Admiral Togo. Japan now has four battleships left not counting the third rate Chen Yuen.

BANZAI SAID THE SECRETARY

YESTERDAY'S REPORT THAT PORT ARTHUR HAD BEEN TAKEN BY THE JAPANESE—A FAKE LETTER FROM THE CONSULATE TO SECRETARY ATKINSON, WHICH WAS A SUCCESSFUL DECEPTION FOR A SHORT TIME.

"BANZAI!" shouted Secretary Atkinson when he reached his office after lunch yesterday and read a note which had been left there for him.

He was surrounded by some mere minions and the news that Port Arthur was captured was at once set in circulation. The letter to Atkinson purported to come from the Japanese consulate and it said in effect that the Japanese has at 2 a. m. summoned the Russians to surrender, they refused, and a terrific bombardment was opened on the town. At 3:40 the Russian commander sent out a flag of truce and accepted the terms offered him. He made a complete surrender not only of the town but also of the warships in the harbor.

Such was the story as Secretary Atkinson received it, but ever since he had the glass-eyed sentinel looking out for the Manchuria at the top of the Waianae range and discovered her when she was hundreds of miles out of sight, the Secretary's war news has been taken with a grain of salt.

The story that Port Arthur had indeed fallen gained ready credence however and many were the enquiries made about the rumor.

ELEVEN DAYS AND NIGHTS FIGHTING

VIVID DESCRIPTION OF THE CONSTANT WARFARE NEAR LIAO-YANG—A LONG BATTLE WHICH AT LAST DEVELOPED EXHAUSTED STRAGGLERS EVEN IN THE JAPANESE ARMY—SPLENDID WORK OF THE COMMISSARY AND RED CROSS.

YOKOHAMA, September 20 (via San Francisco, October 16).—A great battle, the like of which has not been fought since the Franco-Prussian war, was the battle of Liao-yang—a battle greater in some respects than any battle in the Franco-Prussian war. Not since the American war of the rebellion has the losing side shown such skill in meeting the desperate attacks of its enemy for so long a time and yet kept open its line of communication and retreat.

The battle of Liao-yang is remarkable for a second reason. The endurance of the attacking infantry was undoubted, beyond the powers of any European infantry whose soldiers are accustomed to regard as necessary the luxuries of modern civilization.

The battle of Liao-yang was but the end of a running battle which had begun at Khusian, twenty miles from Liao-yang, August 23, and continued without interruption up to the fall of Liao-yang on September 4. Of the details of the imperial guards division, forming the left wing of General Kuropki's army, I can speak as one who saw, for I accompanied the guards through those eleven days of fighting. Eleven days of pitched battle and rear-guard actions. Eleven days of shot and shell. Eleven days and eleven sleepless nights of marching, counter-marching and fighting. Exhausted men slept in battle with shells bursting over them, with bullets spitting on every side to awaken under the buffets of comrades and move forward probably to the sleep of death. If the full between shots was long enough to permit the gunner to sit down to rest he dropped asleep by the side of his gun. Many nights the soldiers fought, and when they were not fighting or marching they lay on their rifles on the field of battle. There was seldom two successive hours in the twenty-four that one might not hear a gun in some direction.

Besides the fighting there was the work of getting an army forward twenty miles of repairing roads, of building gunpits and trenches, of attending to the dead and wounded—which numbered in the rear division alone 2,800 from August 23 to August 30, the day before the battle.

During my six months in the Japanese army I have watched in vain for the expression of human emotion akin to those of my own people, for some slight indication that the Japanese army was not as soulless as an American corporation or trust. I had come to the conclusion that this army had no bowels of humanity in it. But here were stragglers at last, as in any other army; men who in their whole demeanor expressed weariness, disgust and suffering. I was forced to the conclusion, that if you ground down the thick cement covering of feudalism, suspicion, imperturbability, stolidity, bureaucracy, deceit, cunning action, government of expediency and rendered effective by strong self-control, absence of conscience evolved through Christianity and civilization—if you ground through this case-hardened envelope you would find an atom of soul—John F. Bass in Chicago News.

WOULD ARRAIGN HIM IN ENGLISH

"Unlawfully using giant powder" is the offence with which Lupul Gomez stands charged in Judge Gear's court and he was to have pleaded this morning. Attorney Lightfoot appeared however with a motion to quash on the ground that there is no such offence. The case was put over until Monday for argument.

"Your honor," said Assistant Attorney General Prosser when the case of Eugenio Arroyo, charged with murder, was called on, "this arraignment has been standing over because of the inability to find an interpreter. Now I understand that the prisoner understands and speaks English perfectly. There are persons in this court room who have talked with him, and I am sure that he can understand the indictment."

Judge Gear left the matter over for argument until this afternoon.

The murder charge against P. H. Nason and that of larceny against Mary Mann were put over until Monday in the absence of Attorney J. J. Dunne.

A jury having been secured last night, the trial was commenced this morning of Chun Lun, Akim, Ng In and Sam Yon for rioting.

The men are accused of having on the night of July 4 last, attacked a number of other Chinese in a house at Waiakua. About 40 or 50 were concerned in the trouble, several of those attacked being severely injured and the house wrecked.

Attorney General Prosser conducted the prosecution, Judge Humphreys and E. A. Douthitt appearing for the defence.

J. T. Medeiros, manager of the Waiakua Water Company, was the first witness called. He said that on 10:30 on the evening of July 27 he heard a tremendous row. There were shots and howls and he went over to Achi's store. Back of the store there was a big crowd of Chinese having a fight. They were armed with cane knives, sticks and hatchets. He saw three or four wounded Chinese.

The case is continuing this afternoon.
